Super Fuel Plunges World Into Suspense

LONDON (UP) — Soviet boasts that Russia had developed a fuel capable of driving a rocket 25,000 miles an hour increased Western belief today the Russians may try to hit the moon Thursday with a missile carrying a hydrogen warhead.

There already had been widespread speculation among British and American scientists that Russia may already have launched such a rocket in belief it would light up the darkened face of the moon during Thursday's eclipse—and in celebration of the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Russia's mastery of rocket missiles and the 40th anniversary already had plunged the world into 48 hours of suspense. Today new claims from Moscow of super fuels and even greater advances in electronics increased the anxious waiting.

Soviet scientist T. Khachaturov, a corresponding member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, wrote today in "Gudot," organ of the Soviet transport ministry, that Russia had developed a fuel capable of sending a missile to the moon in 10 hours.

Predict Great Speed

He said the new fuel was developed to launch Sputnik II into space with its dog passenger at a speed of 17,885 miles an hour. His article, "the threshold of interplanetary transport," said interplanetary travel was obvious since a speed of 25,000 miles an hour was possible.

The moon is about 241,000 miles from the earth.

The latest suggestion that a rocket may already have been launched came today from Kenneth W. Gatland, vice chairman of the British Interplanetary Society. He also said he suspected it might carry a nuclear device. Similar reports came from American scientists.

There also have been rumors that Russia might try to splash the moon with a red dye. But Dr. James Stokley, director of the Fels Planetarium in Philadelphia,

Coast Guard Cutter Sights Object in Sky

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Sebago reported it spotted a brilliant flying object in the sky this morning about 200 miles south of the mouth of the Mississippi River.

The unidentified object was first sighted at 5:10 a.m., the Coast Guard said. Radar contact with the object was retained intermittently from 5:10 a.m. to 5:37 a.m., with the object visible to the naked eye for three seconds beginning at 5:21 a.m.

A radio report from the Sebago, on duty in the Gulf of Mexico, said the object "resembled a brilliant planet" and was traveling at a high rate of speed.

The "planet" traveled in concentric circles around the ship, according to the report, and was last tracked 175 miles from the vessel. At that time, it was headed northward toward the Louisiana coast.

The Coast Guard in New Orleans said it was alerting ships to keep a watch for the object, whose whirling flight covered at least 175 miles during the 27 minutes it was tracked by the Sebago.

In north Louisiana, four persons told state police they sighted a bright object about half the size of an automobile rising from the ground Monday night near Monroe.

Troopers checked the reports and found nothing unusual.

The four persons said the hovering object "suddenly rose rapidly straight up and vanished into the sky" as they drove from Monroe eastward toward Rayville on U.S. 80.

Congress Pushing Ahead With Missile Probings

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate leaders today appeared ready to push ahead with a full-scale investigation into what the entire U.S. space-missile effort needs to win the race for superiority over Russia.

Once launched, the broad Congressional inquiry presumably would also attempt to pin down conclusively whether and just how far Russia — with two Sputniks in the air — is ahead in rocket development.

The decision facing Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and Sen. Styles Bridges (N.H.), ranking GOP member of the committee, was how far a preliminary investigation already started by the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee should be broadened.

Johnson, chairman of the Preparedness group, emerged from a seven-hour defense department briefing Monday unconvinced that the U.S. missile program is keeping up with Russia's.

The House Manpower Subcommittee called more defense officials today to testify why the three services are permitted to conduct separate missile programs. Subcommittee Chairman James C. Davis (D-Ga.) said it was "pretty obvious" the Defense Department hadn't managed missile research and development personnel properly.

The administration has not ventured any new public assessments despite fears raised by Democratic congressmen that the two Soviet satellite launchings seem to bear out Russian claims of possessing an intercontinental ballistic missile.

Campaign Notes—

Democrats 'Get the Idea'—Rial

A Republican candidate for judge in Westmoreland County said here yesterday that the Democrats evidently "got the idea" about the main issue of the judicial campaign.

Robert H. Rial, who met voters at the Pittsburgh Steel company's 12th St. gate yesterday afternoon, displayed a Democratic leaflet which was being handed out at the same time.

The sheet, which Rial noted was "appropriately" printed on yellow paper. said the "Republican candidates for common pleas court, speaking from their ivory towers, suggest there is something sinful about partisan politics."

"They (the Republicans) advocate the appointment of judges by the people," the handbill states.

"That's the idea exactly," Rial commented. "That's what this whole campaign is about. The Democratic bosses think judges should be picked by a handful of men in the courthouse. We say the judges should be picked by the people."

Rial was acompanied by his wife, the former Sarah Lynch, on his last-day campaign visit to Monessen.

The candidate said they received "very courteous" reception at the mill gate.

"Several of the men even volunteered that they intend to vote for me," Rial said.

Wraps Up Campaign

The Monessen Democratic party wrapped up its strenuous pre-election campaign last night with a giant rally at Slovak Home. A large crowd attended.

The rally, led by incumbent Mayor Hugo J. Parente, who is seeking an unprecedented fourth term, heard all candidates call for support of the straight Democratic ticket.

Following the rally, the candi-

Local Student, Shot Behind Ear, Still 'Critical'

A Monessen High School student who was shot behind the right ear on Sunday remained in "critical" condition today at Mercy Hospital in Pittsburgh.

The youth, Thomas Steer Jr., 16, of 921 Summit Ave., was rushed to the Pittsburgh hospital for the removal of a 22 caliber slug. He had received emergency treatment at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

State Police have refused to release details of the shooting, stating that the case has been turned over to juvenile authorities for a complete investigation.

It was learned that Steer and four companions, all Monessen High School students, had gone to a spot near the reservoir of the Pittsburgh-West Virginia Railroad off of Twilight Hollow on Sunday afternoon. They planned some "target practice" with 22 caliber rifles.

Reportedly, the youngsters started to "horse around." In the byplay that followed, a bullet caught Steer behind the right ear, according to reports.

Police have refused to say who shot the bullet.

All of Steer's companions were at school yesterday, it was learned. One of the party was believed to be a girl.

The shooting, which has been described as "accidental", took place at 3:30 p.m. Steer, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Steer, was rushed to Charleroi-Monessen Hospital by the Charleroi Fire Department ambulance.

Big Turnout Is Still Forecast Before 8 p. m.

Voting was reported as medium to heavy in most of Monessen's 15 precincts as of noon today.

Voters began going to the polls at 7 a. m. The vote lightened up about 10 o'clock when a slight rain started to fall. The polls will be open until 8 p. m.

Despite the dreary weather predicted for today, political observers still were predicting that an estimated 75 per cent of Monessen's 10,500 registered voters would go to the polls.

A check shortly after noon revealed that close to 2,000 voters had gone to the polls.

Voting elsewhere in Westmoreland County was reported as surprisingly light as of noon today. It is expected to pick up after 5 p. m. The largest number of registered voters on record — 161,436 — is eligible to vote in the county. Of the total, 105,759 are Democrats.

Today's major battle in Monessen is between incumbent Democratic Mayor Hugo J. Parente, who is seeking an unprecedented fourth term, and his Republican opponent, John R. Stieska. The Democrat's 9,400 vote majority is expected to sweep Parente into office.

Second Clash

Parente and Stieska, a registered Democrat, clashed in the May primary with the former winning the Democratic nomination by over 1,400 votes. Steiska, however, won the Republican nomination on a write-in and sticker campaign. No Republicans filed for offices in the primary.

Winning both the Democratic and Republican nominations in the primary, Treasurer John Spielman and Controller James Tucci are assured of reelection today.

Incumbent Councilman John Molnar and John Harhai are the Democratic councilmanic candidates. Molnar also won the Republican nomination. William Snyder, a registered Democrat, won the Republican nomination.

School director candidates are Emil Beck and Dr. Joseph M. Dudas Sr., Democrats. Beck also won the Republican nomination and has Clifford Learnard, a registered Democrat, as his GOP running mate.

Comments at the polls indicated that the $200,000 public library bond issue on today's ballot was being supported by a great majority of the voters.

Judgeship Race

In the county, the spotlight is focused on the three common pleas judgeship posts.

Running on the Democratic ticket are incumbents Edward G. Bauer, who is seeking a second term, and David H. Weiss, who is serving by appointment and running for a full 10-year term, and District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco.

Their Republican opponents are

Donora Man Hurt In Area Accident

James Crump, 35, of 1059 Maralda Ave., Donora, was in serious condition in Charleroi-Monessen Hospital this morning with chest injuries received in a traffic accident on Route 51 near Wickhaven yesterday afternoon.

State and district police had no report of the accident.

Shotgun Victim Out of Danger, Wife Still Held

A Monessen furniture store salesman, who police said was shot by his wife on Oct. 19, was reported out of danger today at West Penn Hospital in Pittsburgh.

A hospital spokesman said that Wallace R. Urban, 40, of 810 Fayette Rd., Lynnwood, will be discharged soon.

According to police, Urban was critically wounded with a 16 gauge shotgun blast in the chest while he lay sleeping. His wife, Hazel, 44, is still being held in Fayette County Jail, Uniontown, without formal charges.

Authorities have indicated that Urban will probably request a mental examination for his wife. They said the filing of charges may be left up to him.

Fayette County Detective Pete Rebottini has quoted Mrs. Urban as saying:

"We quarreled over his drinking and running around. I first planned to put rat poison in his coffee, then I decided the shotgun would be quicker."

Later she told authorities: "I'd be happy if he got better."

Mrs. Urban said she bought the shotgun and shells in a Bentleyville store. Following the shooting, Mrs. Urban heard her husband groan and immediately called police.

Mrs. Urban, the mother of two teen-aged daughters, was treated in Bellvue Hospital, Pittsburgh, in July of 1956 for a nervous condition.

Hot Race for Burgess Today In Brownsville

Brownsville voters went to the polls today to decide the boroughs hottest race in years.

The big contest is for burgess where they hold at wo-and-a-half Jr., Democrat, faces a serious challenge from Republican Marion C. Klingensmith.

Ordinarily the Democrats sweep to all local offices in Brownsville where they hold a two-anda-half to to one edge in voter registration.

But political observers predict many split tickets today. They point out that W. J. (Billy) Long, former powerful political figure in the Democratic Party, is actively supporting Klingensmith.

Long and Thomas have been odds in recent years in a dispute over party control.

Brownsville voters will also elect a tax collector, two school directors and a councilman from each of the borough's six wards.

Seven Held in Burglary Ring

California borough police said today they have arrested seven persons, four of them juveniles, in connection with a series of burglaries.

Police Chief Robert Elliott identified the three adults as Dave Holma, Coal Center R. D. 1; Carol Venetian, Coal Center; and Ira Gauden, Malden Road, California. All are listed as 18.

Elliott said the young men have been arraigned before Justice of the Peace Catherine McKean of California on charges of burglary and larceny. They have been committed to Washington County Jail for court action.

The four youngsters have been turned over to juvenile authorities.

Police said two of the juveniles were from Charleroi R. D. 2, one from Granville Hollow and one from Bentleyville R. D.

The three adults are charged with carting items away from three farms and three mines in the California area.

Police said about 15 gallons of gasoline were taken from the farm of Charles Tinley; two tires, a wheel and a tire tube from the farm of Tony Sterben and tools and gasoline worth about $50 from the farm of Wilbur Galbraith.

The one-man mine of Mike Lazor was taken for two pit car wheels and a similar mine worked by Simon Rider, was relieved of six of the same type wheels.

About 100 pounds of copper cable was taken from Clyde Mine No. 2, police said.

Police said they recovered several tires, tools and a quantity of gasoline but they believe the remainder of the stolen articles were sold for scrap to junk dealers.

First Civic Music Concert on Nov. 21

The Monessen-Belle Vernon Civic Music Association announced today that its first concert of the winter season will be given on Thursday, Nov. 21, in the Monessen High School auditorium.

Heinz Hammerman, Austrian pianist, will be the artist as previously announced.

Mrs. Paul Latkanich, Civic Music president, said the date has been confirmed by the pianist's manager.

Hammerman, who made his debut at Carnegie Hall in New York City in 1955, is making his first transcontinental recital tour this season. He is being acclaimed by critics as one of the most brilliant of the younger pianists.

Three other numbers will be offered to members on Civic Music's sixth annual series, Mrs. Latkanich said. The remaining attractions and dates are as follows:

Jan. 29 — Cavalcade of Song, a chorus of 18 male voices under the direction of Ralph Hunter.

Feb. 23 — Jerome Hines, bass-baritone of the Metropolitan Opera.

April 19 — Norman Carol, violinist.

Only members of Civic Music may attend its concerts. No tickets are sold for any of the numbers.

During the annual membership campaign last month, over 830 members were enrolled for this season. This is the second highest membership in the group's history.

Soviet Trying to Force Vote on Arms Proposals

Ultimatum Will Junk Months Of Arms Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—The Soviet Union, threatening a boycott of arms talks with the West, tried to force a vote today on its demand for an 82-nation U.N. Disarmament Commission.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov called on the General Assembly's main political committee to give "priority" to a vote on his resolution over a 24-nation western disarmament measure.

He told the committee Monday the Russians no longer will take part in discussions conducted by the 12-nation Disarmament Commission or its subcommittee, composed of the five atomic powers.

The Soviet proposals would mean the junking of five months of arms talks conducted by the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Russia in London this summer.

Calls It Ultimatum

The 24-nation resolution embodies the western proposals made at these talks. Kuznetsov tabbed the resolution an "ultimatum."

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said he hoped Kuznetsov's statement that Russia was through with the Disarmament Commission and its subcommittee was "just a passing thought and that wiser counsels will prevail."

"We do not believe that any nation seriously wishes to stand for all future time before the world and before recorded history as the nation which broke up and which ended humanity's effort to achieve disarmament and to achieve peace," he said.

Jules Moch of France expressed similar sentiment. British Minister of State Cmdr. Allan Noble said it was a "discouraging development." Canadian Delegate Wallace Nesbitt said Canada was "shocked and disappointed at this (Russian) ultimatum."

Fear Weakening

Western delegates feared that the Soviet maneuver, backed up by recent Soviet technological developments, would weaken support from other U.N. members for the Western resolution.

The West has banked on a heavy vote in favor of its disarmament proposals to persuade Russia, by the force of world opinion, to go along with them.

"The Soviet government considers that all attempts to make use of the disarmament subcommittee for productive work have been entirely exhausted," Kuznetsov said.

"Under these conditions, the Soviet government does not see any sense in further participation in the work of the Disarmament Commission and its subcommittee. Proceeding from this, the Soviet government declares that it will not participate in the U.N. Disarmament Commission and its subcommittee in their present composition."

John L. Is not After Pay Boost

WASHINGTON (UP)—President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers has indicated he is not pressing for a wage increase for union members at this time.

Industry sources said Lewis wrote coal operators advising them the miners' three-day Christmas holiday and $40 bonus were not mandatory this year under the present contract

Lewis wrote that the Christmas arrangements applied only to 1956 "in the absence of negotiation and agreement between the parties, which has not yet eventuated."

Industry sources believed this was Lewis' way of making it known he was not presented any wage demands. The "soft" market for coal probably accounted for this step, the sources said.

Nation Keeps Eye on New Jersey Voting

NEWARK, N J. (UP)—New Jersey voters elect a governor today in an off-year election vital to national GOP hopes for victory in the 1958 congressional battle.

About 1,600,000 of 2,783,315 registered voters were expected to ballot in fair, clear weather.

The pools open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. e.s.t.

The election also was vital to Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner's 1960 presidential ambitions and considered an important test of President Eisenhower's prestige.

Eisenhower has "enthusiastically" endorsed a rugged, 38-year-old campaigner, state Sen. Malcolm S. Forbes, as the Republican to unseat Meyner and his well-entrenched administration.

Some Differ With Ike

Some Republican strategists privately believe that the President was too enthusiastic in his support of Forbes, a relative newcomer to the national political scene. They pointed out that a Forbes defeat might be considered a partial rejection of Eisenhower policies and a trend for the 1958 congressional elections.

On the other hand, the GOP strategists said a Forbes victory would go a long way toward strengthening the President's voice among party faithful who believe his popularity is slipping. And, according to Eisenhower, a GOP triumph in Jersey would be "great big shot in the arm" for national Republican fortunes next year.

It would help make up for a crushing Republican loss in Wisconsin earlier this year.

An overwhelming victory for Meyner would move him into the front row of prospects for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination. Meyner is considered one of the brightest figures in the national Democratic organization.

Impartial analysts favor Meyner, although, some quarters regard the election as a tossup because of reported voter apathy and shifting party allegiances.

Voters also will elect a congressman in South Jersey's Second District, 10 of 21 state senators, all 60 assemblymen and decide a referendum to ease voting residence requirements on the state and county levels.

Brings Hurried Meetings

The Soviet developments were so startling that hurried meetings were called in Washington and in London to assess the full import

Paul-Henri Spaak, secretary general of NATO, arrived in London today to discuss with British leaders the revamping of North Atlantic defenses in the face of Russian advances. The meeting is a prelude to the December meeting of the NATO chiefs.

There was no official word from Moscow, but a steady flow of hints that something big was brewing for Thursday morning. Nikita S. Khrushchev gave such a hint Monday night in talks with Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-Tung.

Pravda Attacks West

Pravda, the official organ of the Communist Party, gave another hint of moon travel today when it quoted a Soviet scientist as attacking the West's "unrealistic reaction to Russian rocket developments"

In Moscow Prof Kirill P Stanyukovich, one of the Soviet's top rocket scientists, disclosed meanwhile the little Husky dog aboard Sputnik II was not expected to live more than 10 days.

There was a growing demand in Washington for action to catch up with the growing Soviet military might as expressed in two satellites fired by intercontinental ballistic missiles-type rockets.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Texas) said a marathon top-level briefing by Defense Department leaders had failed to convince him the U.S. missiles program was keeping pace with Russia.

He made the statement to reporters in Washington as he and other key members of the Armed Services Committee emerged from a seven-hour conference with Army, Navy and Air Force missile authorities.

Ike To Discuss Programs

Another Washington dispatch reported President Eisenhower would meet twice with his cabinet this week to discuss legislative and budget programs. But the world believed he would study means of speeding the American rocket program.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, head of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., predicted an "amazing show" of flashing Soviet satellites over he United States next month.

But Whipple's speculation about moon rockets were the most disturbing to the West. He said the Russians may already have launched a nuclear armed rocket to the moon to hit and explode there on Thursday.

A lunar rocket would be the pinnacle of fireworks display for the Soviet celebration And it would boost even further Soviet prestige already sky high from its two artificial moons

A Russian scientist said Monday night there were "new sources of power" involved in the second Sputnik flight. He also referred to improved, supposedly "near perfect" controls to put the carrier rocket in a precise orbit around the globe.

Monday the airlines division of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks authorized the calling of a strike by 600 workers, some of whom are employed at the range.

—Scientists kept a close watch to see if there was any sign Russia had launched an unmanned rocket at the moon as part of Thursday's 40th anniversary celebration of the Bolshevik revolution.

Bethlehem Asks for Merger Court Trial

NEW YORK (UP)—Bethlehem Steel Corp. has called for full-scale court trial to determine the validity of government charges that a merger of Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. will reduce competition.

Bruce Bromley of Cravath, Swaine & Moore, chief attorney for Bethlehem, asked that steel salesmen and consumers be called to testify.

He asked for a trial of the issues during the first day of formal argument on the government's motion for a summary judgment before federal Judge Edward Weinfeld.

An assertion by the Justice Department that enough "undisputed' facts exist to warrant its motion was disputed by Bromley.

The attorney attempted to refute the government's charge that the merger would make it more difficult for new firms to enter the steel industry.

Bromley said government figures demonstrate that Kaiser Steel Co., one of the recent entries in the field, accounts for nearly 27 per cent of ingot capacity on the West Coast, second only to U.S. Steel.

He attacked government assertions that concentration in the steel industry would increase, by saying concentration is relative, not absolute.

He emphasized the importance of local markets in determining the effects of competition in the steel industry.

The anti-trust division of the Justice Department said earlier there is no assurance Bethlehem and Youngstown will launch a proposed expansion in the Middle West if their merger is approved

A key contention of the companies is that if the merger is allowed, Bethlehem will spend 358 million dollars to add 2,588,000 tons of steel capacity in the Midwest.

Allen A. Dobey, an attorney for the anti-trust division took a little less than two hours to summarize the government's positions. His main argument being that the two companies compete in many markets.

Humphrey Anti Price Decrease

WASHINGTON (UP) — Former secretary of Treasury George M Humphrey said Monday that it would be "quite unfortunate" if the prices of National Steel Co. products were lowered when third quarter profits are the lowest in seven years.

Humphrey, now board chairman of the steel firm, rejected a suggestion that the company cut prices. He maintained its pricing policy was "to keep ourselves competitive."

He told the Senate Anti-trust and Monopoly Subcommittee that it is too early to determine complete effect of last summer's wage increase.

Youth Held in Shotgun Slaying Of Policeman

READING, Pa. (UP) —Sixteen-year-old William Clayton Henderson, was being held without bail today on a murder charge for the shotgun slaying of a state policeman who tried to disarm him after three others failed.

The victim was Phillip Melley, 43, who was to retire next month following 20 years of service. The youth, on a rampage because his parents had forbidden him to go hunting, shot Melley Sunday, after disarming three other officers.

Police said Henderson, of nearby Boyertown, left his home in a rage with a .12 gauge shotgun He threatened to use the gun on his father, William, when the parent started to follow the boy.

The parents summoned police who detailed troopers Thomas McCann and John Devine and Constable Irwin DeHaven to search for the youth. Henderson sneaked up behind Devine in a nearby wooded area and disarmed the trooper. He then disarmed McCann and DeHaven and handcuffed the troopers together. DeHaven was ordered to lie on the ground.

Trooper Melley in civilian clothes spotted the group and made an attempt to creep up on the boy. When he came within reach he lunged at Henderson who fired at his head, killing him instantly.

The youth threw the gun to the ground, ran a few yards and returned to give himself up He was charged with murder Monday and placed in Berks County Prison.

Annexation of Carroll Twp. Up to Court

Washington County Court today took under consideration Donora's latest attempt to annex a 200 acre tract of Carroll Twp.

The court, sitting en banc, heard council for both Donora and Carroll present final arguments yesterday. No decision is expected for a month or more.

Attorneys for Carroll contended throughout the hearings that the Donora annexation petition is "illegal." They pointed out that a similar annexation attempt was disallowed by the court in 1955. Under state law, the borough is required to wait five years before beginning new proceedings.

However counsel for Donora argued that the 1955 failure was due to technical reasons and therefore the borough was not subject to the waiting periods.

In short, the court will have to decide if Donora's abortive attempt two years ago was defeated "legislatively or judicially."

Restricted Period

If the court finds the 1955 annexation was defeated legislatively, the new proceedings will probably go by the boards because a legislative failure means a five-year restricted period before new proceedings can begin.

In the 1955 annexation, the court found that Donora's Borough Council failed to vote properly and record individual votes properly on a motion to over-ride the annexation ordinance veto of Burgess August V. Chambon, even though the minutes show the overriding vote was unanimous.

The Carroll Twp. adherents claim that this failure to follow the law in the over-riding vote constituted a legislative defeat. The borough, however, claims that the annexation was defeated only after the matter was taken to court and the court found that the votes had been improperly recorded and it was therefore a judicial defeat.

Other Matters

There are, of course, other matters the court will have to consider including the problem of whether the petitions to annex carried more than 50 per cent of the required signatures of all the freeholders in the part of be annexed.

Donora also argues that there is some question over whether the township supervisors and the taxpayers who signed the protest are actually aggrieved parties as required by the annexation act.

The borough is attempting to annex approximately 200 acres of the second class township adjacent to the borough.

Roving Pickets Close Several Coal Mines

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (UP) — Striking United Mine Workers of a Crucible Steel Co. coal mine near here sent roving pickets fanning out through the Southwestern Pennsylvania coal fields today forcing at least nine other mines to close.

The Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators Assn. estimated that more than 8,000 miners had been idled by the spread of the walkout through Greene County and portions of neighboring Washington County.

If the work stoppage continues through the afternoon shift, the number of idle workers may reach 12,000.

The 400 miners of the Crucible operation quit work Monday charging that the company had violated seniority rights in laying off 83 men. Pickets of the striking local started throwing up lines at neighboring mines during the night.

Most of the mines affected are big pits which feed the steel mills of the Pittsburgh district. U. S. Steel Corp. reported its Robena Nos. 1, 2, and 3 and Karen mines closed as well as the large preparation plant which serves them. U. S. Steel said 1,560 of its workers were idle.

Jones & Laughlin Steel reported that its Shannopin mine closed when the 500 employees refused to cross picket lines. The company uses the coal from the Shannopin mine to blend with the output of its Vesta mine. As a result the blending plant had to be closed and the Vesta mine shutdown, idling another 900 workers.

Pickets also were reported at the Mather Colliery Co.; the Chartiers mine of Emerald Coal and Coke Co., and the Clyde mine of Republic Steel.

Decision for the walkout was reached at a local union meeting Monday. A formal vote was not taken, a local union official said, adding they had "just" decided to walk out.

Crucible Steel Co. has charged the walkout amounted to being a wildcat strike on the grounds that all facilities for arbitration have not been explored.

The union said the company had offered to take back 48 of the laid-off workers on the basis of their seniority if 48 other men over 60 could be retired. The union said it rejected this proposal.

The miners staged a two - day walkout last week shortly after the layoff schedule was announced, but decided to return to work pending the local meeting today.

Teamsters Aim For Early Trial On Hoffa Election

WASHINGTON (P) — The Teamsters Union today aimed for an early trial of charges that James R. Hoffa's election as union president was rigged.

A Federal Appeals Court Monday refused to lift a preliminary injunction barring Hoffa from succeeding retiring President Dave Beck in the $50,000-a-year job and cleared the way for a trial of the rigging charges.

The union said it would not ask the Supreme Court to review the ruling.

Hoffa, meanwhile, faces trial in New York on a perjury indictment, to be followed by trial on a wiretapping charge.

The perjury trial, scheduled to start Monday, was postponed to await decisions by Federal Judge William B. Herlands in New York Federal Court on a series of dismissal motions by Hoffa.

The labor chieftain has moved that the perjury indictment be dismissed and that evidence obtained against him by wiretap be barred. Judge Herlands is scheduled to rule on the motions today.

Washington Twp. Attorney Trying To Clean Up Boundary Dispute

Attorney J. R. Rygiel of Fayette City is searching through old Fayette County records in Uniontown these days as part of an unusual assignment.

He's trying to establish that the boundary line of nearby Washington Twp. is the same today as it was a century ago.

And there's a pretty good reason behind his search through the dusty records. As matter of fact, the Washington Twp. School Board authorized him to do the probing.

It seems there's some misunderstanding over the boundary which divides Washington Twp. from Jefferson Twp. in the Lowber-Gillespie area.

The trouble started earlier this year when Fayette County's new assessment program was announced. At that time, the county informed several Washington Twp. property owners that they were actually located in Jefferson Twp.

The county assessment program was based on an old map in Harrisburg which divided the two townships by a straight line. Until this summer, officials in both Washington and Jefferson townships thought the boundary had a different slant.

Rygiel is just starting on his check through the records, but he feels he may have already come up with the answer. Back in 1866, owners of the old Chambers and Stephenson farms petitioned the court for permission to enter Washington Twp.

There is clear evidence that the request was granted. Since that time, the township has collected taxes on the two farm areas. Children from the section have attend Washington Twp. schools ever since.

Apparently this change was never properly recorded in Harrisburg.

Of late, the area in question has developed with home building, thus increasing its tax value.

According to Rygiel, there was never any dispute over which township was entitled to the area.

"We anticipate no trouble in clearing up the boundary line," said Rygiel. "It's just a matter of establishing that the current boundaries are correct. We have no doubt that they are."

Rygiel's search through the records has taken him back as far as 1784. And he's the first to concede that the assignment has been interesting if somewhat unusual.

Krushchev's Doctrine

ALTHOUGH Soviet scientists are giving us a dazzling display of their mastery of outer space, other news from Moscow underscores the fact that the government of the Soviet Union is now dominated by a very earthy earthman, Nikita Khrushchev.

Khrushchev has disposed, for the time being at least, of another potential rival for power — Marshal Zhukov. And he had done in the cases of Molotov, Malenkov and Kaganovich some months ago, he has made effective use of the "cult of personality" doctrine.

This was the doctrine, you recall, which Khrushchev expounded in the famous speech in which he demoted Stalin. The idea was that Stalin went haywire because he built a personal empire and made both the Soviet government and the Communist Party subsidiary to that empire. This, said Khrushchev, amounted to a "cult of personality", a departure from the principles of Lenin and Marx.

Now Khrushchev is telling the Russian people that their great war hero, Marshal Zhukov, had like Stalin been developing a "cult of personality" within the Soviet armed forces. Khrushchev charges that Zhukov was departing from Leninist principles and building his own personal power. So Zhukov must go.

This doctrine promises to be quite a useful gadget for Khrushchev. Inevitably anybody who gains influence and prestige with the Russian people in any field of activity is a candidate for a "cult of personality" ruling which will send him to the salt mines.

The danger for Khrushchev, however, lies in the fact that every time he pulls his doctrine to dispose of a rival, he makes it all the more obvious, even to a people subject to the most skillful thought control, that Khrushchev himself is operating a "cult of personality". And it seems only a question of time until he is consumed in his own fire.

Same Old Poles

THOSE bright, shiny, modern-looking street lighting fixtures, which are being erected in Monessen's downtown area are having at least one unpleasant effect already. They are clashing markedly in appearance with the old-fashioned, beat-up wooden poles on which the new lights are being installed.

Why the West Penn Power Co., which in many respects is one of the most progressive power companies we know anything about, doesn't come up with a plan for the elimination these gruesome throw-backs to the gaslight era is hard for us to understand.

No doubt some important dollars-and-cents considerations are involved, and we would want to be among the last to contend that these should be brushed aside. But we find it hard to believe that what is done as a matter of routine by many power companies in many communities cannot also be done by West Penn, particularly in a community which is making strenuous efforts at self-improvement.

West Penn is not unmindful of the desirability of more decorative facilities for street lighting. Anyone who visits the company's beautiful new headquarters at Camp Hill in Greensburg is impressed at once by the excellent lighting of the long, winding driveway to the building. And not a wooden pole in sight!

It seems to us that what is right for Camp Hill ought to be just as right for Donner Ave. in Monessen. And we think West Penn — and Bell Telephone, too — should be working towards this improvement, which will be more and more desirable as our rejuvenation continues.

Still Necessary

EVEN before the polls are closed and the votes are counted in today's election, it is possible to make one firm observation about this election so far as Monessen is concerned. And that is that this community stands desperately in need of a second political party.

The Republican party hit bottom in Monessen this year when it failed to present a single candidate for any local office. This was a complete abdication of party responsibility.

It is not a criticism necessarily of the local Democrats to say that Monessen needs a second party. For it is simply impossible to have a normal political life in any community where public affairs are dominated year-in and year-out by one party without an articulate opposition.

Because of the Democrats' monopoly, the registration in the city is now about eight to one. And no one can pretend that this makes opposition seem like anything but hopeless.

But the Democratic candidates for local and county offices seldom do better than two to one. And it is not uncommon for a Republican candidate to receive more than twice as many votes as there are registered Republicans. This means that there is far more independence of thought in Monessen than is suggested by an eight-to-one registration.

We suggest that there is both an opportunity and a responsibility facing those in Monessen who call themselves Republicans. No matter how today's election turns out, they should begin tomorrow to reconstitute their party and make it an effective instrument.

U. S. Seeks 40 Missile Bases In Europe

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It looks as if the President's trip to the NATO meeting in Paris is going to be much more than a hurrah visit to impress our western allies with unity. He and Prime Minister Macmillan have worked out a plan for the United States to set up 40 missile bases in Western Europe as the answer to Russia's ICBM. This will be the first step in supplanting land armies with pushbutton warfare.

Mr. Pearson

The plan, which has been under study in the Pentagon for some time, is to ring Russia with missile bases capable of firing the intermediate range missile, or IRBM, around 1,500 miles. This is the missile developed by the Army at Huntsville, Ala., regarding which there was so much dispute with the Air Force and which led to the court martial of Col. John Nickerson.

The intercontinental ballistic missile or ICBM, which Russia has and we haven't, goes 3,000 miles. However, the IRBM, firing 1,500 miles, is effective against Moscow if launched from bases in Western Europe.

Eisenhower's chief job, according to the plan now being worked out in the White House, will be to sell our NATO allies that these missile bases should be operated by the United States, not by the smaller nations of Europe.

Allies Will Object

Naturally our NATO allies will object to having American troops occupying their soil with the right to touch a button which could bring swift retaliation against them from Russia. A touch of the button could also precipitate another world war.

Already the smaller nations have been suggesting, if not requesting, that they have these new missiles.

This is going to be the very big, very controversial problem in establishing the new bases. For our military experts fear that the new missiles, if spread around Europe in various hands, could lead to all sorts of eventualities. One push on one button could touch off World War III. And they are afraid some irresponsible commander in some isolated area might provide that push — if these new and terrible weapons are not under the direct control of Britain and the United States.

It will be Eisenhower's big job to sell this in Paris.

Hoffa's GOP Friends

Sen. John McClellan, Democrat of Arkansas, usually gets along beautifully with Republican colleagues — so much so that Democrats sometimes call him a "Republicrat." But he had a terrific backstage hassle the other day with Republican members of his committee when he wanted to investigate Teamster boss Jimmy Hoffa. This was just before the Teamster election.

At first Republican senators refused to attend the hearings. Hoffa, of course, is a good Republican. Furthermore, Sen. Charles E. Potter of Michigan, also Republican, had been in touch with them, warning that if Hoffa is ousted from power in Michigan, the man who will rule Michigan labor will be Walter Reuther, Democrat and head of the United Auto Workers.

Senator Potter also charged that McClellan was picking on Hoffa merely because the latter is a Republican and in order to do a favor to Sen. Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts, who wants the Democratic presidential nomination. If Hoffa is eliminated, Potter claimed, it would help Reuther, who in turn would be expected to show his gratitude by supporting Kennedy for the Democratic nomination.

Hoffa had also gone to bat to try to defeat a fellow labor member, Pat McNamara, Democrat of Detroit, when McNamara ran against ex-Sen. Homer Ferguson, Republican. Despite Hoffa's opposition, McNamara won.

As a result of Potter's confidential wire-pulling, only one Republican senator turned up for the McClellan investigation. McClellan telephoned every Republican — including Senators Ives of New York; Goldwater of Arizona, who is considered a labor-baiter by most labor leaders; and Curtis of Nebraska, also anti-labor. All of them flatly refused to come to Washington. Only Sen. Karl Mundt of South Dakota reluctantly gave in.

NOTE: It's considered significant that the only member of the AFL-CIO hierarchy who went to bat for Hoffa has been Maurice Hutcheson, head of the Carpenters' Union, and a stanch Republican. Hutcheson also has been under scrutiny for taking the Fifth Amendment. He refused to answer questions regarding land which he mysteriously purchased just before it was to be repurchased for a federal highway. George Meany laid down the rule that anyone pleading the Fifth Amendment would not remain in good labor graces, but he hasn't applied this to Hutcheson.

Where Eisenhower Is Headed

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

There are those who, having talked with President Eisenhower during the past ten days, are convinced that the administration has already taken four basic, guideline decisions on the one issue which concerns the country more than anything else.

Mr. Drummond

The issue: Are we going to do everything necessary to catch up with the Soviets in science and scientific weapons — or aren't we?

These sources, who feel confident where the president is headed, describe the decisions in these terms:

That nothing, absolutely nothing, is to be allowed to stand in the way of closing the gap as rapidly as possible.

That the needs of basic research and speeding a wide range of missile development, including missile defense against missiles, are to receive the highest priority.

That if more money is needed — and money per se may not be the answer — then the $38 billion spending ceiling on the Defense Department will be moved.

That the President's underlying premise is that the United States, if we are to deter a hot war and not throw the cold war away, must put redressing the balance of power ahead of balancing the budget — although Mr. Eisenhower is profoundly desirous of doing both.

This approach to the weapons race, which is the very antithesis of complacency, has not been formalized in any National Security Council paper, but the information I have reason to trust is that the foregoing, faithfully reflects Mr. Eisenhower's thinking.

Obviously work is already going forward on the four speeches which the President will deliver in the next few weeks and it is a good assumption that this mood of urgency-without-panic will animate all of them.

To Disclose Decisions

These addresses will embrace more than urgent rhetoric. They are expected to disclose important decisions and outline future actions.

The present intention is that all of these speeches will be delivered outside of Washington although the White House has not yet decided which invitations to accept, which platforms will be the most appropriate.

The feeling around the White House is that the President will exert the greatest impact upon public thinking, will establish the most effective communication with the people everywhere, if he physically goes to different parts of the country to deliver his message. The present intention is to do it that way.

I do not wish to leave the impression that Mr. Eisenhower just can not wait to raise the debt ceiling, that he is eager to lift next year's budget over $70 billion, that he thinks the way to solve all defense problems is to appropriate more funds.

That isn't what Mr. Eisenhower thinks at all. That isn't the way he feels. That isn't the way he works. By choice he would much rather cut the budget than enlarge it; he would rather save than spend; he would rather cut taxes than not.

Recognizes Mistake

What the President has come to feel, according to the best information I can tap, is that in light of what the Soviets are successfully doing in science and in missiles, it was in retrospect a mistake for him to yield to the terrific pressures from many of his strongest admirers and supporters and from within his cabinet to put economy-at-all-costs ahead of defense.

What I am told is that while he would like to see economies elsewhere make way for any needed rise in defense spending, he does not intend to yield to the economy - ahead - of defense pressures again and that he certainly does not intend to let himself get into the same box he did last year arguing against his own budget.

On this whole matter he has these words of advice to follow: "We must be willing to dare all for our country. History does not entrust the care of freedom to the weak or the timid. We must be willing. . .to accept whatever sacrifices. . .A people that values its privileges above its principles soon loses both."

The advice is Dwight Eisenhower's — from his first inaugural.

Moscow Drops Phony 'War Scare' in Syria

By CHARLES M. McCANN

The Syrian-Turkish war scare has brought relations between the two big Arab leaders close to the breaking point.

Russia engineered the scare, partly to try to hurt the chances of Premier Adnan Menderes in the recent Turkish election.

Mr. McCann

Now the whole scheme has been exposed as a gigantic hoax. But it has had some important results.

First, it has brought a firm warning to Russia that an attack on Turkey would be regarded as an attack on all 15 members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Embittered Relations

Secondly, it has embittered the relations between King Saud of Saudi Arabia and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt.

When Russia, with Syria's support, master-minded the fake allegations that Turkey and the United States plotted to attack Syria, Saud tried to act as mediator.

Turkey immediately accepted. It was announced that Syrian President Shukri al-Kuwatly of Syria also had accepted. But then Russia stepped in.

Middle Eastern advices say that, at Russia's instigation, the pro-Russian elements who now wield power in Syria overruled Shukri.

Russia wanted no mediation because it wanted to blow up the scare as a real danger to peace.

Nasser supported Russia. Apparently he did so partly because of jealousy of the increasingly predominant part Saud is playing in the affairs of the Arab world.

Nasser Sends Troops

At any rate, Nasser's chief contribution to the situation was to send troops to Syria and let it be known that they—all 6,000 or so of them—would fight beside Syria if war broke out.

Also, Nasser sent the troops without consulting Saud.

Nasser and the Syrians tried to get Saud to withdraw his offer of mediation. Saud refused. Not only that, but he insisted that the Syrian acceptance of his offer still stood.

With the Turkish election over, and the ousting of Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov as Soviet defense minister to worry about, Moscow dropped the war scare like a hot potato—which it had become.

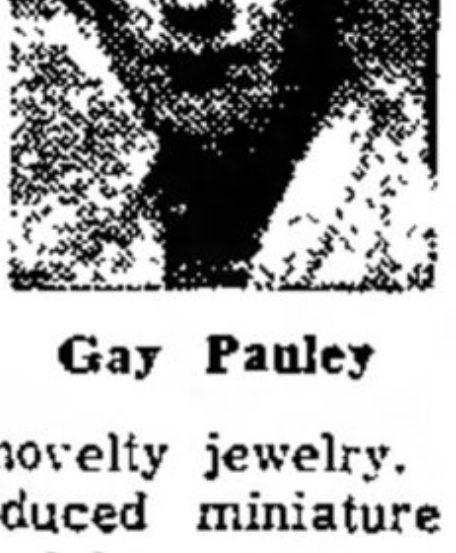
Sputnik Inspires New Craze in Jewelry

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP)—We've had out-of-this-world clothes, hats and hairdos inspired by the International Geophysical Year. Now comes outer-space jewelry, which capitalizes on the world-wide sensation created by Sputnik.



Gay Pauley

Various designers and hair stylists latched onto the space theme for promotion long before the Russians launched a baby moon. But no sooner had Sputnik streaked across the horizon than manufacturers began "tracking" with novelty jewelry.

They have produced miniature earth satellites, globes, comets, star bursts and crescents in pins, bracelets, even key rings.

Globe on Pivot

One large manufacturer, Coro, featured a Sputnik charm bracelet with the charm a globe on a pivot. The bracelet is in either simulated gold or silver and a spokesman for the firm said sales were excellent.

"But," he added, "it may be a fad which will die out after the holiday shopping season."

"These are the kind of things we usually wind up eating," said one retail jewelry buyer.

But other manufacturers thought the space motif would last longer.

"Actually, this is just a revival which we are crediting to Sputnik," said Mrs. Janet Brown, a leading stylist and owner of a fabulous collection of antique jewelry.

Good Design Source

"Craftsmen through the centuries have found the heavens a good source for design," she said.

Mrs. Brown said the celestial theme dominated in jewelry designs in the Napoleonic period in France and had its greatest success in this country in the Victorian era.

Victorian pieces in her shop include necklaces with crescents and stars in turquoise and pearls, star-burst pins of diamonds and turquoise, and antique globes in coral.

Mrs. Brown's jewelry goes for some fancy prices, because all are of real gems. But the girl who wants to follow the satellite fad without breaking her budget can buy the Sputnik charm bracelets for less than $2.00.

Mamie's Free Coat

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UP) — Backstairs at the White House:

The President's wife, a gregarious and talented party guest, has walked, with her sparkling shoes and matching hose, into one of the gummy arguments of our time.

The recent flare-up in the government over the propriety of accepting gifts seemed to be quieting when Mrs. Eisenhower accepted, with benefit of news cameras and in apparent delight, an $1,800 beaver coat from an association of Maine trappers.

True, Mrs. Eisenhower paid $385 to have the coat made, but the trappers gave her the pelts from which the garment was put together, and they said the finished production was worth $1800.

The President's wife did not have to refer the matter to the State Department legal division. She has plenty of fur coats and stoles as it is, and she certainly did not need the beaver coat, but accepted it to help along the Maine fur industry.

However altruistic her action may have been, it came on the heels of the now famous Oldsmobile which King Saud of Arabia presented to the family of Victor Purse of the State Department, an event which led to his removal as deputy chief of protocol.

Because this town just now is acutely gift conscious, Mamie's acceptance of the coat set tongues a-wagging in some Washington circles. One story going the rounds was that a famous dress designer offered the wife of a prominent government figure one formal dress to wear to a party given by Queen Elizabeth II when she was recently in Washington. Said wife, according to the gossips, swept into the designer's salon and left with three cuffo evening gowns, plus two other dresses.

The designer was reported last seen reading a copy of Democratic Digest.

Also, there is a rather energetic lady making the rounds on Connecticut Avenue, telling her hair dresser buddies that one of the biggest names in Washington goes among the diplomatic corps clad in the newest thing from Paris, but for free.

Allen, Lewitsky 'Hound Surprises

Despite the 21-12 defeat at Charleroi Friday and the loss of a couple of Greyhound gridders for the season due to injuries there were some definite bright spots for Armand Niccolai and his aides . . . Running neck and neck for the honor of No. 1 surprise were Ed Allen and Jimmy Lewitsky . . . Big Ed, 260-pound tackle has been on and off the injury list this season and has never been able to fully exhibit his potential but it started to "show" Friday night when he repeatedly stopped stabs at his tackle slot with those "bear-hug" tackles . . . Lewitsky replaced Ken Bronson when the first string halfback was injured and more than ably filled the bill, gaining 23 yards in five tries, displaying some very tricky running.

* * *

The fans and the radio announcer thought they were seeing another new back in action when a No. 82 began ripping off considerable yardage . . . The program listed the ball carrier as reserve end Ken Walters but it turned out to be Carl Rattay, regular fullback, who had his jersey badly torn and switched (on the sidelines) with Walters . . . It appeared to this writer that if it was Walters, he must have been well padded for he goes about 130 pounds to Rattay's 180! . . . It was a terrific ball game and all of the 'Hounds should feel very proud of their effort . . . Without that last touchdown, the score would have given a true picture of the toughness of the game with a 14-12 count which was just about the difference in the game.

Another Fine Season for Bimbo

Lou (Bimbo) Cecconi's Sharpsburg team is enjoying another great season, chalking up the fifth straight victory over the past weekend, topping Verona, 37-7 . . . One of the finest "little men" ever to come out of the valley, Bimbo apparently has installed some of that wonderful Cecconi spirit into his ball players . . . Bill Kline, who formerly quarterbacked the Rostraver Leopards, is now attending St. Vincent College following his return from service . . . He's there on his own, however, and not through athletic affiliations. Kline played under Jim Weir, currently the athletic director for the Green and White athletic teams.

* * *

Pro football fans in this area who want to see an almost perfect football stadium and one of the most attractively designed stadiums in the country would do well to consider a trip to Baltimore to witness an athletic event . . . This writer, Jim Kehr, of the Pittsburgh Steel office staff, a prominent bowler here, and Mike Kara, Pricedale grocery store proprietor, also noted for softball play in the Tri-County League, took in the Steeler-Colt game at Baltimore Memorial Stadium Sunday and what an impressive sight . . . Every seat in the place is excellent for football but what strikes the uninitiated is the beauty of the sports arena with its upper tier resting on huge cement pylons and the entire stadium constructed of red brick and concrete, perfectly combined for beauty . . . Incidentally, a trip to Baltimore now is just about as convenient as making a jaunt to Cleveland . . . Five hours will adequately cover traveling time to Baltimore.

Galaski Continues Fine Jacket Play

Monessen's Ed Galaski played a terrific game for Waynesburg again Saturday night against Findlay . . . Galaski has been a standout end for Johnny Popovich's gridders in practically every game to date . . . Monongahela High School's All-Big Six back of last season, Fred Cox, rambled 23 yards Saturday at Morgantown for one of the touchdowns in Pitt Frosh's 34-0 romp over the West Virginia yearlings . . . Not to bore you on details of a trip we made but just to prove how much can be accomplished in this day of fast travel, the trio mentioned here previously, left the valley at 7 a. m. Sunday morning, traveled to Baltimore, saw a football game, visited with two families (Kehr's brother, our friend), went on a short shopping spree, a sightseeing tour, and was back home at 1 a. m. Monday morning!

Baseball Players Best Good-Will Emissaries

By OSCAR FRALEY

ROME (UP) — Athletes such as Joe DiMaggio and Yogi Berra, an Italian said vehemently today, are better known abroad and actually are finer goodwill ambassadors than the big wheels in the State Department.

You hear this same approach to the subject in baseball-happy Japan. And certainly, here in the spaghetti and vino capital of the world, you'd have to give an edge to such fine local handles as DiMaggio and Berra.

Yet, when you inspect the scenic Tiber Valley where the Olympic Games are to be held in 1960, you can't be blamed for scanning such statements with a slightly suspicious eye.

Foster Good Will

This is not designed to provoke a debate as to whether the international games do anything to foster international good will. Nor is it meant to knock the slightly soggy slogan ament the friendships formed on the field of friendly strife.

But there must be a moral of sorts somewhere in Rome's Olympic setting.

Rising tall and green beyond the playing fields is a mountain which forms a breath-taking backdrop. It slopes upward with a soft gentleness, undulating and reaching toward the sky, and atop its summit stands a commanding gold statue of Christ. It is a setting which, at first glance, gives the impression of a deep serenity.

But then you look more closely at the bland face of the mountain and only then do you realize the incongruous nature of some of the silent gallery which will be staring down at the games designed to promote a greater spirit of friendship and understanding.

One one knoll there is a building which houses war orphans.

Topping one rising slope, white crosses gleam in the sunlight, shimmering symbols in a cemetery dedicated to a nation's war dead.

Jutting out on one rise is a blank-faced building, its facade as vacant as the kinds of those incarcerated on the inside.

Brennan Big 5 Fete Speaker

ND Coach OKs Date Of Dec. 11

Terry Brennan, Notre Dame's youthful head football coach who's bringing the Fighting Irish back to former grid heights, will be guest speaker at the eighth annual Mon Valley Sports Writers Association dinner, it was announced today.

The affair, which pays tribute to the most outstanding high school football players in the Big 5 Conference, will be held Wednesday, Dec. 11, at Twin Coaches on Route 51, near Belle Vernon.

Only 29, Brennan is one of the nation's youngest collegiate coaches. A former Notre Dame star and All-American, he succeeded Frank Leahy three years ago and is doing an excellent job of carrying on the fine football tradition established by the late Knute Rockne and other coaches at the South Bend school.

TERRY BRENNAN
Notre Dame Head Coach

After winning nine of 10 games in 1954, and posting a classy 8-2-0 in 1955, the Fighting Irish slipped to an inauspicious 2-8-0 mark in 1956. This year, they started by winning four of their first five games to not only stump the experts who predicted another lean season for Brennan but also regain lost football prestige for which ND teams are noted.

Sharing the spotlight with Brennan will be a host of other prominent sports figures whose names will be announced from time to time.

Bruised But Hale, Healthy Steelers Prep for Browns

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A bruised, but fundamentally hale and hearty Pittsburgh Steeler team began practice today for its game Saturday with the Cleveland Browns.

A victory by Pittsburgh could lift the team into a tie for first place in the Eastern Division.

The New York Giants and Buddy Parker's Steelers are presently deadlocked for second place with 4-2 records. Paul Brown's Cleveland Browns, which have lost only one game while winning five, are in first place.

Pittsburgh has lost once to the Browns this season, a 23-12 defeat fashioned by the toe of Lou Groza, sometimes called the great placekicker in gridiron history. He booted three field goals and two conversions.

Several Pittsburgh players were shaken up in the Baltimore Colts game Sunday, but all were expected to be ready for Sunday's game.

Kicker Gary Glick received a black eye, center Ed Beatty suffered a bruised leg and Guard Mike Sandusky a knee injury.

A large contingent of Pittsburghers will travel to Cleveland to see the game.

Carmichaels Wins Greene County Title

Carmichaels High won the unofficial Greene County football title by defeating Mapletown, 14-0, before 1,200 fans at Carmichaels last night. The game had been postponed by flu.

Joe Burvan scored both touchdowns, one on a 20-yard run climaxing an 84-yard drive and the other on a two-yard run, ending a 50-yard drive. He also ran over one of the extra points.

Uhlman Jumps Scoring Lead; Bronson Third

Monessen High School's Ken Bronson jumped to a third place tie in the Mon Valley League scoring race with two touchdowns against Charleroi Friday night jumping his season total to 42 points to deadlock Tom Urbanik of Donora.

The two touchdowns Joe Uhlman tallied against the Greyhounds kept him in first place for had he been held to just one, Donora's Angie Dabiero, who tallied three times and scored an extra point against Monongahela, climbed to second place with 49 points, just six behind Uhlman.

Carl Rattay, of Monessen remained in a fifth place tie with Ollie Payne of Charleroi, both with 30 points.

Three new names were added to the scoring list when Bob Johnson of Monongahela, Bing Alcott and Tom Ruscitti, both of Donora, each scored their initial touchdowns in the 40-13 contest at Monongahela.

Against mutual foe, South Union, the 'Canes suffered that close 6-0 loss while Dunbar was beaten by the Blue Devils, 25-7. North Union Bellmar's next foe, also took the measure of the Mules, 21-6.

Dunbar shows a 2-5 record while Bellmar is currently sporting a 3-4 mark.

Rostraver will have a chance to chalk up it's initial win against the Jointers who are enjoying the same sort of season as the Leps. This contest should also be a terrific battle.

Russell, Bixey Pace Construction Loop

Jim Russell showed a 493 three game effort while Charles Biksey had a 210 single game to pace Construction League Bowling last night.

Winners in team matches were Sharons and the Vulcans over the Dandoe and Freeports.

Other high scorers were Herb Palm, and Jim Woods.

Standings Vulcans 18-9, Freeports 16-11, Sharons 13-14 and Dandos 7-20.

Rostraver Jrs. Keep MVJ Title

Billy Ross went over Perryopolis' goal twice yesterday afternoon to give the Rostraver Junior High eleven its second Mon Valley Junior High Conference championship in succession with a 13-0 victory at Rostraver, the fourth of the season in four games for the Little Leopards.

Ross carried over in the first quarter from the 25 yard line on an end sweep and Frank Peto bucked over for the extra point.

A second Rostraver score came in the second quarter in an odd manner when Ross raced 50 yards to the one-half yard line. Perry's line then stiffened and threw the Ed Hogan-coached local entry back to the 12, where on fourth down Ross again carried around end and over the goal line for the 13-0 count. The extra point was no good.

Allen Sidelined

The Rostraver eleven played without the services of Ray Allen, star halfback, who is bedded down with the flu and complications.

Several other Rostraver scoring drives were stopped by penalties.

The Little Leopards had previously disposed of Marion, Vernon, South Huntingdon.

Attempts to play a postponed tilt have been stymied by Fallowfield Township officials.

Injuries Take Toll But Bronson Okay; Dukes Show 11 Vets

Coach Armand Niccolai of the Monessen Greyhounds learned the sad news yesterday that two of his linemen were out for the season but the news was tempered somewhat with the word that a first-string back would probably be all right for this week's game with Duquesne.

James (Bobo) Aldrich, senior letterman tackle, considered the keystone of the Monessen line, and Lou Gigliotti, playing first string center in place of Tom Churan who was injured earlier in the season are both suffering leg injuries and were sidelined for good following the Charleroi clash.

Meanwhile, the good news was that halfback Ken Bronson, who was twice helped from the field in the Charleroi clash, should be ready for the Duquesne game.

12 Lettermen Back

The Dukes come here Friday night with a veteran team, showing 12 lettermen and a team which was in the WPIAL running until the Johnstown game a few weeks back.

The Dukes have lost only one game in each of seven seasons since John Donelli has coached the Duquesne grid team, the 1944, 1945, 1946, 1948, 1954 and 1956 teams showing only one defeat.

While the 'Hounds and Dukes are battling here, elsewhere in the Big Six Five Monongahela will be visiting Charleroi in a conference clash, Brownsville will be at Connellsville in a "back-yard rivalry" tilt and Donora hosts Washington in an inter-sectional contest.

West Newton at Home Thursday

While Bellmar and Rostraver are playing away from home Thursday night, West Newton, another local entry will be hosting a tough Fairchance eleven.

The Chancers will be seeking their sixth win in seven outings while West Newton has suffered only two losses this season, the latest against Trafford.

West Newton, coached by former Monessen athlete Andy Yartin, has upset a strong Perryopolis team and a highly-regarded South Huntingdon team this season.

Mrs. Jake Mintz Fighting to Sit in Greaves' Corner

DENVER, Colo. (UP)—Mrs Jake Mintz, the only woman boxing manager, was involved in a battle of her own today to be allowed to sit in Wilf Greaves corner when he meets middleweight Joey Giardello of Philadelphia Wednesday night.

A Colorado rule states that "in no case shall a woman be allowed to act as a second for a boxer." Mrs. Mintz, of Pittsburgh, argued before the Colorado Commission, however, that her managership of Greaves entitles her to sit in his corner.

The commission will make a final decision just before fight time.

Giardello, 27, third-ranked contender for Carmen Basilio's crown, is favored to whip Canadian Graves who boxes out of Pittsburgh.

Giardello has won eight consecutive bouts, for an overall record of 78-11-4.

Greaves emerged victorious in 14 of 22 bouts. Two were draws.

Giardello looked smooth in his final workout Sunday He expressed hope that a solid victory over Greaves would lead him to a title shot.

Losses Expected to Hit Attendance for Pitt-Mountie Tilt

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Recent gridiron losses by University of Pittsburgh and West Virginia were expected to keep the crowd well below capacity for their game here Saturday.

The contest, the 49th meeting between the two schools, will draw about 50,000 fans to Pitt Stadium, authorities estimated. Prior to the weekend losses by both schools, it was estimated the traditional game would attract 60,000 fans.

In series play, Pitt has recorded 37 victories, 11 losses and one tie. The Panthers have won the last three encounters.

An ailing Pitt team worked through a light practice Monday with a coach noting that "our trainers have a bigger squad than the coaches."

Key players suffering injuries from last Saturday's game with Syracuse included center Charlie Brueckman, halfback Dick Haley, tackle Jim McCusker and halfback Joe Scisly.

'Same Old Guys' Pacing Scoring Race in NBA

NEW YORK (UP)— If you're looking for new names in the National Basketball Association scoring races, forget it, because the same "old guys" are doing business at the same old stand this season.

Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks, Dolph Schayes of the Syracuse Nationals, Bill Sharman of the Boston Celtics and George Yardley of the Detroit Pistons hold down the top four positions in the first weekly NBA scoring statistics. And not far behind them are such old favorites as Neil Johnston of the Philadelphia Warriors and Slater Martin and Easy Ed Macauley of the Hawks.

Pettit has scored 131 points through his team's first five games to lead in total points, but Yardley, who has scored 112 in four games, has the top average, 28. Schayes, the Nats' scoring leader almost every season, has netted 116 in five games, Sharman has 114 in five and sophomore Bill Russell of the Celtics has 107 in five games.

'Dream Race' Seen Now Turning into Real Nightmare

CAMDEN, N.J. (UP) — The "dream race" of the year is turning into a nightmare for the owners of Dedicate and Round Table.

Mrs. Jan Burke of New York, owner of Dedicate, learned Monday night that Willie Hartack will be unable to ride her horse in the $75,000 added Trenton Handicap at Garden State Park Saturday.

Hartack, the nation's leading jockey the last two years, is committed to ride Calumet Farm's A-Glitter in the Selima Stakes at Laurel this weekend.

"That's a real blow for us," Mrs. Burke told the United Press in New York when informed that Hartack was not free to pilot Dedicate. She declined to state whether Dedicate would be withdrawn from the race, but a stable spokesman conceded such a move "was very possible."

Meanwhile, Willie Shoemaker decided to string along with Gallant Man in the Trenton, leaving Round Table without a rider. Willie Molter, who trains Round Table, was counting heavily on Shoemaker and now may switch to either Dave Erb or Willie Harmatz—if they are available this weekend.

Even if Dedicate is withdrawn, the Trenton shapes up as a terrific horse race and one that should at least decide the three-year-old championship. Round Table, Gallant Man and Bold Ruler are all considered strong challengers for the crown.

Texas Aggies Top Oklahoma in UP Weekly Grid Ratings Poll

By NORMAN MILLER

NEW YORK (UP) — Texas A&M's perfect-record powerhouse, which often leaves its opponents wondering just how it keeps winning, replaced Oklahoma today as the No. 1 team in the United Press college football ratings.

When the Texas Aggies beat Texas Christian, 7-0, two weeks ago, one of the losing players remarked, "we should have whipped them three touchdowns." The following week when Baylor succumbed, 14-0, the victims chorused "they're not that good." And the Arkansas Razorbacks were hardly impressed with A&M's prowess after being edged 7-6 by coach Paul (Bear) Bryant's men last Saturday.

No Soft Touch

But small though their victory margins may be at times, the Aggies have managed to find the winning formula in a pressure-packed schedule that does not include a soft touch.

And on that basis, the consensus of the 35 leading coaches who make up the United Press rating board picked Texas A&M tops this week by a margin of 10 points over Oklahoma. Thirteen of the coaches made the Aggies their No. 1 choice; 11 voted for Oklahoma.

Auburn moved up to third place and Michigan State took over fourth in the ever-tightening race for the national championship.

The top 10 group became a "top eleven" this week when Oregon and Tennessee tied for the No. 10 ranking. Both teams were newcomers to the select group this week, along with Navy and Michigan.

Auburn, whose coach Shug Jordan received a new contract Monday largely on the strength of this season's 6-0 record, attracted seven first-place votes. After Auburn came three Big Ten Conference teams in order — Michigan State, Iowa and Ohio State. Michigan State and Iowa each had one first-place vote; Ohio State received two.

Army, Navy, Michigan and the deadlocked Oregon and Tennessee teams rounded out the leading group.

Sporstmen's Corner—

Knowing Hunting Rules May Save Future Game

Most of the following items may be found printed on the 1957 Pennsylvania hunting license or in the Digest of Hunting and Trapping Regulations issued with each license. These brief reminders are restated here briefly as a service to small game hunters who might otherwise innocently err. They may also save game in the interest of future hunting.

On October 19 and October 26 the opening hour was 8 a.m., Eastern Standard Time. On all other days of the native small game season the hours are 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., E.S.T.

Possession and transportation limits of legally killed small game shall not be more than the daily limit for the first day nor more than an accumulated total for each succeeding day of the open season for each species, but never in excess of the season limit.

The 1957 season is closed for: hen pheasants; sharp-tailed grouse; Hungarian partridges. Semi-automatic shotguns may be used for hunting small game, predators and unprotected birds, but may contain not more than a total of three shells. The three shell limit applies to repeating shotguns, but does not apply to hand-operated repeating rifles.

It is illegal to place, possess or carry a loaded shotgun or rifle in or on an automobile or other conveyance while in motion or standing along any highway open to public use.

Within 24 Hours—

When game not in season is killed by mistake the erring hunter must clean and deliver the carcass to the nearest Game Protector within 24 hours to qualify for quarter penalty.

Persons between the ages of 12 and 16 years must be accompanied, while hunting, by a parent, guardian or other adult as the Game Law prescribes.

Unlawful to shoot at game while it is or a public highway or to shoot across a highway.

Unlawful to hunt for any kind of game on Sunday, including raccoons and woodchucks.

Unlawful to hunt or to discharge any firearm including bow and arrow) within 150 yards of occupied buildings without first obtaining permission from the landowner or occupant.

The landowner or tenant who acts as hunting season host should receive Golden Rule treatment from persons given the privilege of hunting on his land.

Sportsmen who obey the law enjoy their sport more, and do not become subject to revocation to hunting license, as well as a fine and prosecution costs.

To prevent a mistake shooting wear a bright, identifying color while hunting.

No one makes the error of shooting a human in mistake for wildlife if he controls his urge to pull the trigger until the bird or animal is clearly visible.

Quick shooting and "sound" shooting are dangerous. Control that sudden impulse.

Every person who shall have caused or been involved in a firearm accident (self-inflicted injuries included) while hunting or trapping shall render a hunting accident report to the Game Commission at Harrisburg, or to any salaried officer of the Commission, within 72 hours after such accident.

—Persons not accustomed to the physical exertions of the hunting sport are cautioned: "take it easy."

If your vision is not good have your eyes examined before going afield. This may prevent a mistake shooting. Greater hunting success is a result of good vision

Stop the cheater. Report his license number to a Game Protector.

The trapper renders a great service to the hunter by removing game predators. Respect his rights.

State Fielded 1st Football Team 70 Years Ago Today

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UP) —Penn State fielded its first football team and traveled to Lewisburg 70 years ago today to trounce Bucknell 54-0.

Two Philadelphians, George H. (Lucy) Linsz and Charles C. Hildebrand, were among the first to attract attention to the sport by kicking a football back and forth on front campus, a university spokesman said.

Linsz had played the sport at Episcopal Academy, Philadelphia, and brought a battered, scuffed ball with him at the beginning of the term. Hildebrand, who until his death in 1950, was an unofficial historian of the era, gave Jinsz support and the two pushed the game.

In a second game between Penn State and Bucknell two weeks later at State College, State won again 24-0.

At the time of the first game in 1887, the student body numbered 170, compared with today's 15,000. The players competed with little or no padding and they wore "beanies" not unlike freshmen dinks of a later period. Only 11 players participated for Penn State.

Probe Union 'Payoffs'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate investigators sought to learn today whether management fees paid to Nathan W. Shefferman's labor relations firm were used to finance hunting, fishing, yachting and football trips for Teamster Union officials.

The Senate Rackets Committee scheduled more testimony today on what Chairman John L. McClellan has termed a pattern of "pay-offs" to union officials in the Flint, Mich. area.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said George Kamenow, Shefferman's former manager in Detroit, and Frank Kierdorf, business agent for Flint Teamster Local 332, would be called for questioning.

Both figured in testimony Monday on a total of $27,770 in "entertainment" fees paid by nine Flint companies to Shefferman's firm.

Nine witnesses told the committee Monday of circumstances under which they hired Kamenow. All of them testified that they paid entertainment fees, or additional payments of some sort, over and above their regular retainer fees.

All said that their problems with the Teamsters improved after hiring Kamenow. Some were able to avoid union organizing drives altogether. Some had such organizing efforts evaporate. One got what he termed a reasonable contract out of stalemated negotiations with Teamster officials.

Most of the witnesses balked at saying that the payments were "pay-offs" or bribes. But one said he paid the money to avoid a Teamster picket line, and another said he thought the payments were wrong.

Federal Payroll Drops 33,684

WASHINGTON (UP)—The federal government payroll shrank by 33,684 persons during September to the lowest point since April, 1956, Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) reported today.

In the monthly report from his joint committee on reduction of federal spending, Byrd said the reduction was the greatest for any single month since June, 1950.

His report placed the number of civilian employes in September at 2,366,398 including 1,130,380 in military departments and 1,236,018 in other government agencies.

The 33,684 reduction for September included 23,876 in the number of civilian employes in defense agencies, divided about equally between white collar and industrial employes.

Britain Pledged by Queen

LONDON (UP)— Queen Elizabeth II pledged the British government today to work for world disarmament so that the advance of science shall not be "retarded by the fears of mankind."

Her speech, opening the 1957-58 session of Parliament, came as Sputnik II hurled through space overhead and the Russians were threatening to boycott all disarmament talks with the West.

Resplendent in evening gown and wearing the glittering imperial crown, Elizabeth gave the assembled Lords and Members of Parliament a broad review of the Conservative government's legislative program and foreign policy.

"They will pursue their endeavors to achieve an agreement on disarmament, mindful that, at this momentous time, the advance of science into the unknown should be inspired by the hopes, and not retarded by the fears, of mankind," she said.

The Queen's speech, written for her by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative government, made no direct reference to the Soviet Union's sensational scientific accomplishments. But it was clear what she was referring to.

She recalled her recent visit to the United States and Canada and the talks held in Washington between Macmillan and President Eisenhower.

These, she said, were linked with Britain's "constant endeavor" to foster freedom in the world.

New Punch-card Form to Save Money in Bonds

A new punch-card form of Series E.U.S. Savings Bonds, issued beginning with October, 1957, will enable the Treasury Department to save around $500,000 a year in printing costs alone.

The new punch-card form, Series E. Savings Bonds look the same — except that they're slightly smaller — and have the same complete safety and improved yields, but they can be handled by electronic machines, saving labor and money for the Treasury and its bond issuing agents.

In the new form of Series E Savings Bonds, you'll find small holes punched in the left end. These show the series, issue price, denomination and serial number, for use in labor-saving electronic machines.

The age of automation has now a punch-card form of Series E. U. S. Savings Bond which is time-saving, labor-saving and money-saving for the Treasury and its bond issuing agents.

Girard Trial Comes to End Today

MAEBASHI, Japan (UP)—The controversial manslaughter trial of Army S3C William S. Girard ended today with the defense demanding a verdict of innocent.

Chief Judge Yuzo Kawachi said the verdict would be announced Nov. 1". The trial was heard by a three-man court since there is no jury system in Japan.

Girard was charged in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Naka Sakai on a rifle range.

Conviction on the charge could carry a sentence of from two to 15 years. The prosecution has demanded a five-year term at hard labor.

Before recessing the court called Girard before the bar and asked if he had anything to say.

"Yes sir," the soldier replied. "I'm very sorry about this accident. My father died and I know how it must feel for her family. I will pray that some day they will find happiness."

Defense attorney Itsuro Hayaski attacked the credibility of the prosecution witnesses, particularly that of S3C Victory Nickel, in an hours long 24,000-word summation before the court.

Nickel, of Inkster, Mich., was with Girard at the time of the shooting and was one of the prosecution's key witnesses.

Girard was accused of inflicting "bodily injury leading to death" in the shooting of Mrs. Sakai, 46-year-old Japanese metal scavenger, on the U.S. Camp Weir firing range last Jan. 30.

Hayashi made these major points in his summation:

—Girard was on official duty and cited a Japanese law which provides a person on duty should not be punished for his acts.

—Acquittal of Girard would provide a "stepping stone" for better U.S.-Japanese relations.

'I Was Fishing'

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UP) — Aloysius Jacubowski, 30, got a three-year sentence Monday for going on a fishing expedition. Police said he put a hook and a long pole through a window to filch $6,300 from a sleeping carpenter's clothes.

A New Saw

CHICAGO (UP) — Plumbing manufacturer Joseph A. Grazier said Monday that what America needs is not a good five-cent cigar but a "bathroom in every bedroom."

CLUE TO AILMENTS — Dr. Leo Gitman (top), speaking at a meeting of the Gerontological Society in Cleveland, O., said that his studies indicate he has found a possible method of preventing heart attacks and hardening of the arteries. Dr. Gitman, of Brooklyn, N. Y., carried on his research with Dr. I. J. Greenblatt (bottom).

New Lighting Near Completion

Monessen's new street lighting system for the downtown business district will be completely installed by the end of the week if the weather holds out, it was announced today by a West Penn Power Co. spokesman.

Alex Newell, company official, said the new-type flourescent lights have already been installed along Donner Avenue from Third to Sixth Streets. He predicted that the entire project will be finished by Friday or Saturday.

A total of 53 new fixtures will be placed on Donner and Schoonmaker Avenues between Second and Sixth streets. Seven West Penn Power Co. work crews have been busy on the project since Oct. 26.

Although fewer lights will be required in the new system, there will be twice as much illumination, Newell said.

Each of the light fixtures contain four flourescent tubes four feet in length. They are controlled by a new type of starter which is not affected by cold weather.

Newell said electric photo cells placed at points throughout the city will turn on the lights automatically when a certain degree of darkness is reached. Thus it is possible that the lights will go on during the day if it becomes extremely dark because of a storm.

All of the old lights will be removed once the new fixtures have been installed.

Newell estimated that the new lighting system will cost West Penn Power about $20,000. The city will pay a rental on each light.

Monessen is the first city in the Mon Valley to approve the flourescent-type system. The only other district communities with a similar lighting set-up are Washington and Irwin.

"Eventually we expect all valley communities to adopt the new-type fixtures," said Newell. "When they see Monessen's lighting system, we're certain they will be impressed."

Uranium Belt Discovered in State of Ohio

COLUMBUS (UP) — Discovery of a uranium belt worth billions of dollars and extending from Lake Erie to the Ohio River and into West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee was reported here today.

It was estimated that a thousand billion tons of the uranium-bearing shale and sandstone lie under Ohio alone.

Clay E. Hicks, Columbus tax consultant and exclusive agent for a patented milling process that makes recovery of the uranium possible, said he thought the estimate was "very conservative."

Hicks said the first plant using the new milling process would be constructed near Hillsboro early next year.

Ohio's uranium deposits are in a non-radioactive sulfide form, he said, and are found in a glacial strip five to 20 miles wide.

He said the strip extends from Conneaut to Sandusky, then dips sharply down through the center of the state to the Ohio River.

Hicks said deposits also could be found in four Northwestern Ohio counties—Williams, Fulton, Henry and Defiance—plus Logan and Champaign counties in western Ohio.

If the glacial strip yields one to two pounds of uranium oxide per ton, he said, Ohio's supply would be worth about 10,000 billion dollars.

Hicks said if only 1 per cent of the rock can be mined and processed, the deposits would still be valued at an estimated 100 billion dollars.

The Brazilian bellbird, a white bird about the size of a pigeon, derives its name from the sound it makes—like a hammer on an anvil.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of Jacob Krutilla who died one year ago today, November 5, 1956.

God's golden sun is shining
Upon our Jacob's grave:
The one we loved so dearly,
And tried so hard to save.
In silence you suffered,
In patience you bore,
'Til God called you to him,
To suffer no more.

Transit Union Officials Meet With Gunther

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Transit union officials met with Superior Court Justice Blair F. Gunther today to hear his ideas for ending the three-week Pittsburgh Railways Co. strike.

Gilbert A. Teitel, business representative of Division 85, Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railways and Motor Coach Employes, emphasized his union would still look to state and federal mediators to settle the strike.

Gunther also had extended an invitation to Pittsburgh Railways, Federal Mediator G. Harry Young and State Conciliator Joseph Bach.

Charles D. Palmer, president of the railways company, without ruling out his attendance, said he thought Young and Bach should arrange any discussions.

The two mediators, on the other hand, said "they felt a further cooling off period would ripen both sides for future settlement," according to Gunther.

Gunther said he did not agree with the mediators' policy.

"I want it publicly known that I do not agree with their policy of a further cooling off period. My feeling is that the cooling off period is considerably past due and that the public should demand that both of these men revise their thinking and get down to business," he said.

Gunther suggested talks be held "around the clock...until an agreement is reached..." if necessary.

92 Flu Death Toll in State; Tapering Off

By UNITED PRESS

The death toll from flu and other respiratory ailments rose to 92 in Pennsylvania today, but health authorities indicated the outbreaks were tapering off in various sections of the state.

The latest victim was 23-month-old Dawn L. Feaser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Feaser, Marysville. Perry County Coroner Clarence W. Frey said tests performed at Harrisburg Hospital showed the girl died of acute bronchitis.

A United Press survey showed that 77 persons have died of flu or allied causes in eastern and central Pennsylvania, with the toll 15 in western counties.

In Philadelphia, Dr. John J. Hanlon, director of public health service, said the epidemic "appeared to be over" in the state's largest city.

Absenteeism in Philadelphia's public schools last week fell to 8½ per cent, or one-half per cent above normal. However, Dr. Franklin H. Reeder, regional medical director for the state Health Department said last week showed an increase in most of the counties bordering Philadelphia.

Engineer Sees Strange Object In the Skies

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (UP) — An electronics engineer reported seeing an unidentified flying object on an isolated desert highway near Alamogordo in southern New Mexico Monday.

James Stokes, 42, an engineer in an upper air research project at the Air Force missile development center near Alamogordo, said 10 automobiles stopped or were stopped when the object appeared Monday afternoon on U.S. 54, between White Sands Proving Grounds and the Air Force missile development center.

Earlier in the day, officials at White Sands Proving Grounds said two Army patrols reported seeing a similar object or objects on Sunday.

Similar reports came Sunday from Levelland, Tex.

A dispatch from Honolulu said a number of Fiji Island natives and a white clergyman reported seeing a similar object in the South Pacific skies last month. The strange object was sighted four times the week of Oct. 13-19, according to an official government report issued in Suva, capital of the island group.

Westinghouse to Give Increases At Four Plants

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Production workers at four Pittsburgh district Westinghouse Electric Corp. plants have ratified wage increases offered under a local reopener clause of the existing five - year agreement between the company and the International Union of Electrical Workers.

Paul Carmichael, president of IUE Local 601, said the 10,500 employes of the East Pittsburgh, Homewood, Trafford and Linhart plants will receive increases ranging from one to five cents an hour, with the bulk averaging four cents.

The raises are retroactive to Nov. 1. The increases are in addition to the automatic five-cent boost which went into effect Oct. 1 under the national agreement.

Carmichael said the members also approved three other supplemental agreements which have been under negotiation since 1953. They dealt with overtime, job analysis and classification, and internal railroad crews.

The negotiations affected only Westinghouse employes affiliated with Local 601.

More Working Wives

WASHINGTON (UP)— The Census Bureau said Monday the proportion of married women working or seeking jobs has jumped from 20 to 30 per cent. The number of working wives increased from 7,500,000 in 1947 to 12,700,000 last March.

Three Children Burn to Death

SPRINGFIELD, O. (UP)—Three young children burned to death Monday night in a fire believed caused by an overheated coal stove in their home.

Police identified the dead as Robert Eugene, 3½; Jonathan 2½, and Michael Andrew 1, children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Valentine.

Authorities said they believed kerosene had been used in the coal heating stove.

Mrs. Valentine had gone to a neighbor's house to fix a kerosene lamp at the time the fire broke out, police said, leaving the children alone in the three-room structure.

Horses abandoned by Ferdinand de Soto near the Texas border became the forerunners of all the wild horses of North America.

New Panel TV Show Has Critics

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) —"What's It For?" is a new NBC-TV panel show that provoked many critics into asking the same question.

But one of its panelists, Abe Burrows, believes the show has a good chance of surviving. It all boils down to the show's personalities and how they mesh, says Burrows, and the gimmick of a show has little to do with its success.

"I'm not saying the gimmick of a show doesn't mean anything at all," said Burrows. An eye-blinker and forehead-wrinkler, he blinked and wrinkled. "What I am saying though is that on TV it's the personalities who make or break a show—particularly of this kind. What counts in the end is the way the viewer responds to the performers and not necessarily, the idea of the show.

"Now, we took a bit of a panning on this show first time out. A roasting? No, I wouldn't say a roasting. I've been roasted myself often enough to be able to tell a roasting. But anyway, I think we're beginning to come across, we're working together better."

Features Goofy Inventions

"What's it For?", it might be pointed out, is a half-hour Saturday night entry that showcases goofy inventions. A panel composed of Burrows, Betsy Palmer, Hans Conried and a swing guest tries to guess the nature of the mechanical beast. Emcee Hal March cracks the whip.

"I think this is one of the big differences between TV and the theatre," continued Burrows as he blinked three frantic blinks. "You can get by in TV without strong material if you have that strong personality working for you. You get a guy who lights up that screen and you stay with him.

"But in the theatre, it's the show that counts. Sure there are a few personalities who can carry a show on their backs—like Ethel Merman—but basically, it's the material that makes or breaks you on Broadway.

"Of course," said Burrows with a blink and a wrinkle and a blink, blink, blink, "the big trouble with TV is that very often there doesn't seem to be any material at all. The comedy is not very inventive and the ideas not very fresh. But you can't blame anybody—there just isn't enough time."

Plans New TV Series

Burrows, co-author of "Guys and Dolls" and director of "Can Can" and "Happy Hunting" on Broadway, currently is engaged in a TV project that would bring Ring Lardner's "You Know Me, Al." to TV as a series.

"With a TV series, you just keep working. However, I guess you can say with this Lardner thing, my reasons are artistic," he concluded with a wrinkle, wrinkle. "It's really a labor of love." Blink, blink.

Gregory Peck Has 'Executive' Problems

(Vernon Scott is on vacation. Gregory Peck, movieland's handsome leading man, has turned producer—and columnist. He writes about his problems as an "executive.")

By GREGORY PECK

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — I once heard somewhere that put an actor behind a desk in an executive job and something psychologically dire happens.

His reflexes suddenly tense, his animation dims as a free-souled player of many parts and he becomes steely and enormously aware of himself as a member of the business brass. In other words, fatty tissue moves in on the gypsy spirit.

Well, I am an actor who has elected to become an executive. With my partner, William Wyler, I am producing my first independent motion picture in "The Big Country" for United Artists release. I have stepped behind that desk where supposedly actors shouldn't lurk for reason of the intangibly destructive things that happen to the freedom of the histrionic talent.

Result of Action

Now, what has happened to me, as the result of my action?

I feel that becoming an actor-producer has most decidely helped me as an actor before the cameras. I have never before been on such intimate terms with my material.

Hollwood actors aren't always as fortunate as Broadway players who have weeks of intensive rehearsal on a play during which they are able to "inside" their characters and the spoken lines. Because of the haste of movie production,. the Hollywoodian is often rushed into scenes before he has had opportunity to become acquainted with them and has to rely on his creative fortitude in the state of hurry.

As a co-producer, I am in the brilliant company of William Wyler, who is acknowledged one of the finest directors in the film industry. Willie, of the two of us, has by far the most exacting assignment, for his concern is the visual presentation, the emotional spark of actor and story.

Works with Writers

My producer chores are mostly working with the writers on the script. We are constantly busy polishing and improving the story, situations, motivations and characterizations. If a role is well-written, it will almost play itself for the actor and that's what Willie and I are striving for —the best possible dramatic writing.

I'm in production for keeps. Although it is hard work, I love it and I don't mind the fourteen and fifteen hours a day which it demands from me.

Reactions To Drugs Not Ideal

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Obviously, drugs can make you well but drugs also can make you ill.

Serum sickness probably is the best example of this. Now, this term usually applies to unfavorable reactions to drugs.

Certainly it's no wonder that some patients react unfavorably to certain drugs. All told, the medical profession uses about 300,000 different substances or chemicals on patients.

Actually, only about 1,000 of these items are in common use. Even so, a particular patient may be allergic to any one of these substances.

Multiply the number of patients we doctors treat each day by the number of drugs we use. Now you will be able to see the innumerable chances there are for allergic reactions.

This problem is becoming a bigger one for the medical profession each day because the reactions are becoming more varied.

Not only do we have to know the countless manifestations of the disease themselves, but we also must be fully aware of the undesirable reactions from the drugs we use to treat the diseases.

These reactions take various forms—high fever, itcing, swelling, and many, many other symptoms. Sometimes, unfortunately, the reactions are fatal.

Penicillin is by far the greatest offender. In fact, it's expected that the drug will produce between 200 and 300 fatal reactions this year.

This, of course, doesn't mean that we should dispense with its use. Penicillin will save many more lives than it will take. But it does show just how widespread serum sickness really is.

We have many ways of combating these reactions. Antihistimines sometimes are helpful and ACTH is widely used. Salicylates, adrenalin and calcium are some of the others. Steroids generally are employed in the more serious cases. Now a substance, penicillinase, has been added to check reactions to penicillin.

It's a big problem, but little by little we are doing something about it.

Question and Answer

D.B.C.: I have a lung abscess. Will I have to have an operation?

Answer: Usually, lung abscesses must eventually be treated by means of surgical operations. There are no other measures that will bring about a cure. On the other hand, an operation depends upon the location of the abscess.
